Dr. Rose's Remedies

Rose DiLeva is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine. She is a certified Veterinary Acupuncturist and a certified Veterinary Chiropractitioner. She has extensive training in Traditional Chinese Veterinary Medicine and Chinese Herbology. Her column, Ask The Vet in Living.Well magazine has achieved award winning status. She is also the editor of The Meridian, the official publication of the American Academy of Veterinary Acupuncture. Dr. DiLeva is owner and President of Animal Wellness Center, located in Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, where she practices integrative veterinary medicine. She is also President and owner of Dr. Rose's Remedies. Dr. Rose researched and developed an all natural skin salve and spray because she felt that a better product could be produced than what was on the market at that time. After 10 years of modifying the formula she came up with the finalized products that are available to you today. At the urging of her clients Dr. Rose had her salve and spray manufactured for the small animal and equine markets. Dr. Rose's Remedies skin salve and spray are all natural, contain no artificial colorings or preservatives and are steroid and gluten free. They heal cuts, wounds, burns, lacerations, skin rashes, abscesses, dermatitis and many more skin issues. They work particularly well on cases of Rain Rot. She has before and after pictures to prove it. The products are antibacterial, antifungal, antiviral, antiseptic and anti-inflammatory. The ingredients are all human grade and manufactured in the USA in a plant that adheres to the Good Manufacturing Practices. Dr. Rose's Remedies recently received a patent from the United States Patent and Trade office for use in mammals. You can find this product under PRODUCTS
